

Panama Visa Information

Contributed by Administrator
Sunday, 10 September 2006
Last Updated Monday, 11 September 2006

Panama seems to be a good country. One I have been there and had a good time. Two the use the US dollar as currency. Three the flights are not very expensive and are not very long from Atlanta.

Here are some links that I have found that may be helpful to research what it would take to gain residency status in the country of Panama.

<http://www.panama-offshore-services.com/passportprograms/multiple-entry-exit-visa.htm>

Here is another good web page about Panama Residency <http://www.ptshamrock.com/panres.html> Not really sure what this company is all about but they are saying that you can get you panama residency for $40,000 plus $1,100 to the Government plus $1500 to them for their fee. A note on another page states that they are not doing the residency programs anymore <http://www.ptshamrock.com/2pp.html>

Found another good website here at www.panamalaw.org. They have several different Visa programs laid out. The one that the other http://www.panamalaw.org/live_and_retire_in_panama.html?gclid=CNKQrr2Vp4cCFQNuGgoduhSL9g